

Boating: Non-motorised craft are launched at your own risk. There are currently no leisure boats for hire on Loch Rannoch. Fishing boats can be rented at various venues as stated in this guide.

Water Safety - Please be aware:

- Water temperatures can be very cold all year.
- Loch and river levels can change rapidly even in dry conditions as they are controlled by Hydro-schemes.
- In certain places the loch edge drops away steeply.
- There are many large rocks just under the surface at loch edge.
- There are no safety boats currently operating on Loch Rannoch.

Ticks and Lyme Disease: Check for small spider-like creatures on yourself and dogs. Remove carefully with tweezers as close to the skin as possible, do not squeeze. Tick removal tools are available in The Country Store Kinloch Rannoch, on line or at the vets. Follow the instructions.

Camping: The official Forestry Commission Scotland (FCS) campsite in Rannoch is on the south shore at Kilvrecht 2.5 miles (4 kms) from Kinloch Rannoch. tay@forestry.gsi.gov.uk 03000 676 380
There are other commercial sites on Loch Tummel, Pitlochry and Blair Atholl.

Camping Roadside or informal camping

- Following the Countryside Code (see below): a few simple guidelines can reduce any impacts on the environment.
- Whenever practicable, please use an official campsite with sanitation facilities (see above).
- Remember, vehicles have a great impact on vegetation; park on hard ground or on a safe tarmac area. Do not park in passing places on single-track roads.
- Roadside camping can cause significant problems, and the Scottish Outdoor Access Code guidance is that you stay no longer than 2-3 nights in any one place.
- The area is patrolled by wardens who will report anti-social behaviour to Police Scotland.

Scottish Outdoor Access code www.outdooraccess-scotland.com

Observe the code at all times - act responsibly. Access rights are not an excuse for anti-social or illegal behaviour.

- Remove all fishing tackle, hooks etc. as these endanger wildlife
- Keep control of dogs
- Do not disturb livestock, crops or fences. Leave gates as you find them.
- Be sensitive to deer management issues. Local employment depends on deer remaining undisturbed at certain time of the year. Your co-operation at these times is important to us. Stalking does not occur on Sundays, use phone details to determine access with proprietors.

Lighting Fires

- Use a stove if possible.
- Deadwood is an important habitat for insects and many small animals, so it is best to avoid campfires completely.
- It is a criminal offence to cut down or damage trees. This also includes trees that have been cut for timber production.
- Never light an open fire during prolonged dry periods or in areas such as woods, farmland or on peaty ground. Heed all advice at times of high risk.
- If you must have an open fire keep it small and under control.
- Never leave your fire unattended and make sure it is out before you leave.
- Remove all traces.
- Fires that get out of control can cause major damage, for which you might be liable.

Toilet waste - Where to 'Go' outdoors

Human sanitation in the outdoors is as essential as other outdoor skills. If public toilets aren't available the best method to dispose of excrement is usually to bury, but this needs to be done sensitively.

- Dig a hole approximately 150 mm (6 inches) deep and 100 mm (4 inches) in diameter at least 30 meters from water.
 - Bury the faeces and replace the turf.
- Remember children play here!

Clean water

The lochs and streams are often local water supplies.

When you need to go to the toilet

- do so 30m away from open water, rivers and streams.
- Never empty chemical toilets in the countryside or into watercourses. Use official sites or take them home.

Litter

- Take away all of your rubbish. Use bins where these are available.
- Consider picking up other litter as well. There is no local litter collection.
- To keep our countryside as we would all wish to find it, set yourself the challenge of leaving no trace of your visit.

Avoid overcrowding

Keep groups small, quiet and well away from buildings, roads or historic structures.

The children from an Eco-Group in Kinloch Rannoch Primary School through their conservation work, fully endorse the Scottish Outdoor Access Code and ask you to please take care of their countryside.

Rannoch and Tummel is a very special area of natural beauty. The lochs and much of the surrounding countryside have protective status such as Special Area of Conservation (SAC) and Site of Special Scientific Interest Status (SSSI).

Please help us to take care of this unique environment. Do not introduce non-native plant or fish species. It is an offence to introduce or recklessly damage the protected natural features of an SSSI.
